E&O celebrates Chinese New Year with Tanjung Tokong folk

Penang, 20 February 2016 – A celebratory mood filled the air as more than 1,500 people thronged the Eastern & Oriental Berhad (E&O) 2016 Chinese New Year Open House at the Straits Green public park here.

Looking resplendent in their cheongsam and samfu, the staff of E&O were abuzz as they graciously welcomed and ushered guests to their tables under the shade of a huge canopy.

The event saw residents of Seri Tanjung Pinang, members of the Tanjung Tokong community, students from neighbouring schools as well as community leaders exchanging friendly banter while making a beeline for the buffet lines featuring mouth-watering local selections such as curry kapitan chicken, kambing golek, fried prawns and the staple Chinese New Year cuisine.

E&O's retail and commercial head Emily Teh said the occasion was more than just a fete but a wonderful platform for the community and the people to bond with one another.

"E&O doesn't only build properties. We are also intent on building strong social value within the communities that we operate in. Therefore, it is truly inspiring for us that guests from all walks of life and different ethnic groups are gathered here, mingling like a one big family," she said in her welcome speech.

The highlight of the event was the festival's must-have Prosperity Toss (yee sang) led by Bukit Bendera MP Zairil Khir Johari, Tanjung Bungah assemblyman Teh Yee Cheu, representatives of respective publications and E&O department heads.

Complementing the traditional lion dance and dragon dance, a splendid mask-changing show by a seasoned performer had everyone fascinated by his deft moves of literally morphing into different 'faces' to the tune of gripping music.

The crowd was equally mesmerised by a troupe of young entertainers who wowed the audience with their juggling skills with multiple diabolos, also known as the Chinese yoyo.

Students from SJK (C) Hun Bin later took centre stage and captivated the crowd with their graceful dance movements accompanied by a medley of popular Chinese New Year tunes.

Children were taken by surprise when the God of Fortune made his special appearance to greet the guests and distribute gold coin chocolates. The "deity" was a hit with the crowd who surrounded him for photo opportunities, probably secretly hoping that some of the good fortune would rub-off on them.
